Arts BC recognizes systemic barriers to professional development opportunities and invites attendees to request a discount or complimentary ticket if needed. Please email Merideth Bisiker at operations@artsbc.org.

ASL

Unfortunately, we will not have ASL interpretation on site at this year's conference. ASL interpretation will be available for online pre and post conference events. Complimentary passes are available for attendees that choose to bring an interpreter. Please contact operations@artsbc.org for more information.

CART (Communication Access Realtime Translation)

CART will be offered throughout the Conference as needed on an individual basis using an automated transcription AI. Please email Merideth at operations@artsbc.org for questions and to coordinate assistance by September 15th, and they will work with you to meet your needs.

For Blind and Partially Sighted Folks

We are able to provide a complimentary pass for a companion, image descriptions and meet other needs for blind and partially sighted attendees. Please email Merideth at operations@artsbc.org operations@artsbc.org for questions and to coordinate assistance by September 15th, and they will work with you to meet your needs.

Moving, Stimming, Making Noise

As part of our introductory notes during the conference, we will remind everyone in attendance that you are free to move around, use the washroom, leave and come back at any time.

In addition, this is a space where we want to create safety for folks who experience involuntary movement and noise making. Our staff and volunteers will not ask you to stay quiet or still. We will ask that attendees do not ask that of anyone either.

Masking and Illness

Many folks are immunocompromised or in contact with those who are. We strongly recommend that delegates wear masks at the Conference when not eating or drinking.

We will have hand sanitizer available around the venue.

With three days of programming and many people in attendance, the risk of contracting Covid and other respiratory illnesses at the Conference is higher than other activities.

Please stay home if you're feeling ill or have tested positive on a rapid test.

Although we would love to see you, we need to work together to create a space that is safer for everyone, especially those who are immunocompromised. We are able to provide refunds and recordings of select sessions. Please email Merideth Bisiker at operations@artsbc.org if you have any questions or if you're experiencing illness.

Personal Space

Please respect individual personal space comfort levels.

At the registration desk we will provide you with a small sticker to put on your name badge to indicate your level of comfort with personal contact.

You may update your sticker colour at any time throughout the conference. If you cannot find any stickers, please find an Arts BC team member who will be happy to help you.

Green = Ready for contact with consent (e.g. hugging)

Yellow = Ask before getting too close

Red = Maintain distance

Food and Drinks

- A light breakfast and full lunch (e.g. sandwich and side) will be provided. Please let us know of your dietary restrictions in the registration form so we can accommodate your needs.
- Water, coffee and tea will be available.
- The Centre will also provide a concession where you will be able to purchase additional beverages. There are also cafés and restaurants located near the Centre where you can purchase beverages and snacks.

Scents

We ask that folks refrain from wearing perfumes, cologne or other strongly- scented chemical and natural products.

However, we are not able to guarantee a scent free event, some folks may not be able to swiftly replace scented products, may need to use culturally significant scented products, or feel societal pressure to mask body odor, etc.

Livestream and Recordings

There will be no livestream of the Conference as we do not have the organizational capacity or budget to do so at this time.

We may record some sessions; however, we have not confirmed this detail yet. Please stay tuned for more information on recordings through our newsletters.
